

MY LIFE, MY BATTLES

Dacia Maraini with Joseph Farrell

The first interview-autobiography from the internationally acclaimed author of The Silent Duchess.

Concentration camp in Japan, while still a girl. Life in Sicily at the ancestral home of her mother, the painter Topazia Alliata. The beginning of her writing career in Rome. The complex relationship with her father, the well-known anthropologist Fosco Maraini. The artists she befriended: Alberto Moravia, Pasolini, Maria Callas. The literary prizes she won. The battles for women's rights she fought. In this wonderfully entertaining read, Dacia Maraini tells it all, from childhood to the present day. Readers will be enchanted by her incredible life story and won't be able to put the book down until its very last page.

PRAISE

'A well-brewed conversation... on the page'

TIMES LITERARY SUPPLEMENT

'A wonderful literary journey'

IL TIRRENO

'A talented writer who has always challenged society with her books'

IL SOLE24ORE

Buyer's Guide:

Price: 14.00 euros | Pages: 200

ISBN: 978-88-96209-22-6

Rights Held: WORLD

Publication date: November 2015

Audience: general

Dacia Maraini is Italy's most translated author, with her books available in more than twenty languages. Both La lunga vita di Marianna Ucria and Bagheria stayed on Italy's bestseller lists for almost two years.

Joseph Farrell is Emeritus Professor of Italian studies at the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow.