

ALBERTO CHILOSI

Migranti

migrazioni
e le ingiustizie del mondo

232 pages

Publication date: 23 novembre 2017

ISBN: 978-88-96209-32-5

Price: 16,50 euros

Rights held: world

Alberto Chirosi, an internationally renowned economist, offers a sharp and well documented analysis of the contemporary migratory processes, seen in historical perspective. In the book the present migratory predicament is related to the inequalities and inequities of the present world, as rooted in world history. The analysis is focused on the consequences of present migrations on the economies and societies of the countries of origin and of those of destination of the migrants, as well as on the available policy options and associated potential outcomes.

About the author

Alberto Chirosi was lecturer of the Theory and Policy of Economic Development, and then professor of Economic Policy at the University of Pisa, from 1972 until his retirement in 2012. His graduate studies were in the nineteen-sixties at the School of Planning and Statistics of Warsaw. His first teaching appointment was in the Democratic Republic of Congo. He has been academic visitor at the University of Cambridge, UK, Senior Associate Member of St. Antony's College, University of Oxford, visiting professor in the universities of Linz, Lodz and Warsaw. In 1988-89 he has served as president of the Italian Association for Comparative Economic Studies. His home page is www.chirosi.it.

